

This technology is impractical and violates Fair Use rights such as Timeshifting. It will be difficult, if not impossible, to implement. It will not be effective even if implemented due to pre-existing hardware and software. It will do nothing but irritate the average person, and perhaps slow down at best those who wish to violate copyright law.